Time really flies. It is the 3rd Asia Internet Congress already. I really started my Internet Marketing Journey after the 2nd Asia Internet Congress and I have to say the journey has been very challenging but I am so glad I took action.

Now I have the skills to integrate online and offline to build businesses that are able to generate me multiple streams of passive income in the shortest period of time.

Besides learning the necessary skills, I have also created new friendships and build up my network to greater heights. So for those who would like to start your internet business journey and have me around to guide you. Feel free to join me at Asia Internet Congress 2009

I'll also be having a gathering after that to help you understanding Internet Marketing better and to get started if you are want to.
